

Report on Mock Drill and Training Session on Basic Life Support Organized by the Department of Kayachikitsa

Dated: 10-07-2025

The Department of Kayachikitsa successfully conducted a Mock Drill and Training Session on 10-07-2025 aimed at enhancing the preparedness and emergency response skills of faculty members and scholars.

The Session commenced with a detailed demonstration by Dr. Dinesh Mahela, Lecturer in the dept. Of Kayachikitsa; who systematically explained the protocols and procedures to be followed during emergency situations. His demonstration focused on practical aspects of emergency management, creating awareness, and building confidence among the participants.

Following the demonstration, a mock drill exercise was conducted to simulate real-time emergency scenarios. Faculty members and scholars from both the Department of Kayachikitsa and the Department of Swasthavritta actively participated in the drill, showcasing coordination, alertness, and teamwork.

The activity provided valuable hands-on experience to all participants and underscored the importance of readiness and swift action in critical situations.

Geo tagged Photographic documentation of the event was carried out, and selected images are attached herewith for reference and record.
